ABSTRACT

The pre- dominant view taken by international jurists is that Article V (2) of the New York Convention refers to the concept of international public policy, the scope of which is narrower than domestic public policy. In other words, what is considered as public policy in domestic matters is different from public policy in international matters. In the context of enforcement of arbitral award, international public policy is increasingly referred to in legislations and court judgments. However, what constitutes international public policy is a matter to be decided by a national judge.
